

Alexander C. Argianas

Associate Appraiser & Corporate Client
Liaison

Alexander joined the firm that carries his name in 2017, assisting in running the day-to-day operations of the business and working closely with clients and employees – as well as his dad, Charles. He oversees marketing and IT for the company and is using both to streamline Argianas while being mindful of the need to maintain the values and detailed approach that are hallmarks of the firm.

With his Master of Science degree in Infectious Disease and Immunology, Alexander brings critical thinking to each appraisal project he works on at Argianas. He is passionate about working with his clients to find solutions and draws upon his many years of volunteer service and internships working with Suicide Prevention Services of America, Benedictine University Adolescent Substance Abuse, Midwest Heart Foundation Young Hearts for Life, Lurie Children’s Hospital and DuPage PADS Employment Center. Alexander is an appraiser trainee and is working towards his license and his MAI designation through the Appraisal Institute.
